What is the difference between a VECTOR and RASTER artwork file?

VECTOR Artwork

RASTER Artwork

- Vector files are made of mathematical calculations that form objects and lines.
- Resolution-independent: Can be scaled to any size without losing image quality. Can be printed at any resolution or size.
- Number of colors can be easily increased / reduced to adjust printing budget.
- A large dimension vector graphic can maintain a small file size.
- ACCEPTABLE FOR ALL OF OUR IMPRINTING METHODS.

Common Vector File Types

- .eps*, .ai, .cdr, .svg and .pdf

If generated from a vector file by a vector program, these are accepted.*

Common Vector Programs

- Drawing and illustration programs such as Adobe Illustrator and Corel Draw.

- Raster (Bitmap) files are made of many pixels; tiny dots or squares of color.
- Resolution-dependent: Cannot be scaled up without losing image quality. Will pixelate when printed.
- Uses multiple color pixels which allows for smooth blends of many colours and continuous colour tones.
- ONLY ACCEPTABLE FOR EMBROIDERY DIGITIZING.

Common Raster File Types

- .jpg, .gif, .png, .tif, .bmp, .psd, and .pdf

if generated from a raster file by a raster program, these are NOT accepted.*

Common Raster Programs

- Paint and photo manipulation programs such as Adobe Photoshop and Microsoft Paint.
